TRANS\CTIONS ARE VERY HEAVY

Movement On the Market in a Number of Prominent Speculative Stocks.

A SMALL CHANGE' IN PRICES

the Majority of These Showed Losses-Decline Shown in Reserves.

(By Associated Press.) YORK, September 23.-There were very heavy transactions to-day in a number of the most prominent spec ulative stocks on the list. This business looked like an active absorption of these issues. That the offerings to realize were quite strictly commensurate is suf-ficiently indicated by the small net changes in the prices at the end of the short session. The majority of these showed losses. That a large distribution of holdings was effected was the impression created. The movement was irregular, but prices advanced with some aggressiveness before the appearance of the bank statement on the supposition that it would make a favorable showing. The closing tone, however, was easy. The bank statement showed a decline in reserves about as large as the extreme preliminary estimate. The contraction in the loan item afforded the necessary relief from the deposit liability, and afforded a nominal increase in the small surplus reserve. Large arrivals of gold in London were all securied in the open market for export, and this had a depressing effect on securities in London. It could not be learned that any part of this gold was taken for New York. The heavy demands to be met by the money market next week are the ground for some apprehension.

(As Reported by Dibrell Brothers,
Danville, Va., Sept. 23, 1985.

Our receipts this week have been considerably larger than for any week for some months past, and the offerings are, nearly altogether of the regular cutings. We think the character of the offerings this week has been much better than was generally anticipated. While there boats offering, still there the think the character of proportion of good, ripe, heavy bodied tobaccos, which would indicate that the character of the crop in this section is much better than has been generally anticipated.

We find a considerable part of the offerings this week has been spotted and frog-eyed, but ripe, Only an occasional pile of wrappers has been affered, and the highest prices for these have rauged from ciptures in twenty-two and one-half cents. We have my set seen any flux wrappers in the bases are the tree of the control of the c much better than was generally anticipated. While there has been a good deal of the thin, brightish tobacco offering, still there has been a fair proportion of good, ripe, heavy-bed tobaccos, which would indicate that the character of the crop in his section is much better than has been generally anticipated. We find a cancer special proportion of good, ripe, heavy-bed to the crop in this section is much better than has been generally anticipated to the crop in the section is much better than has been generally anticipated the crop in the section of the crop in the section of the crop in the proportion of any work of four first colors of Shakespeare's plays.

NE WYORK, Sept. 23.—Buying in the dry goods market was less active at the end of the week, although the status was firmer. The constantly increasing strength of the cotton market and the appearance of China for a moderate supply of heavy cotton, which may be the forerunner of large business in this direction, have acted as bullish influences.

DECLARES THAT GULF STREAM IS NOT LEAVING ITS COURSE

(Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch and New York Herald.)
(Copyright, by the New York Herald Co.)
PARIS, September 23. - M. Grandidler, a member of the Institute, casts doubt on the captain of the the observations of the captain of the German steamship. Molike, tending to show that the guif stream is deviating from its course.

He declares that to clucidate such phenomenon extensive scientific knowledge and special instruments are necessary.

Moreover, before coming to a decision on the point, careful soundings should be made all along the normal course of the current.

made all along the normal course of the current.

Replying to the question: "Is a phenomenon of this description possible, scientifically?" M. Grandidier said:

"I think not. Nature does not usually show such whims. A current as powerful as the gulf stream cannot deviate suddenly without good and sufficient reason. To effect this a frightful cataclysm would be required—the sudden separation of the two Americas, an curthquake or volcande cruption affecting a wide area.

"Moreover, if the gulf stream had really deviated from its course the fact would not have remained unnoticed. A sudden rise or lowering of the temperature would have been observed.

"On the other hand, although a deviation of the gulf stream itself does not appear possible, an unimportant branch may have become detached from the main stream and have taken a different direction."

the last season many of the finest canvasses have crossed the Atlantic. Of recent times the most notable instance is the sale to Mr. Atlman, of NewYork, of Hoppner's 'Lady Louisa Mannars,' at Christies, for 14,000 guineas (371,655). "In fact, the high prices paid for many of the pictures sold under the hammer are undoubtedly caused by unlimited commissions from Americans. The famous Titlan 'Arlosto,' purchased last year for £30,00 (150,000), by the British nation, would in all probability have found a place in some American collection, had not Mr. Beit and a few others generously subscribed £18,000 (390,000) of the purchase money."
